Topics

- 1. The commercial relationship between plaintiffs and each Noticing Defendant from 1994-2003.
- 2. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants’ alleged infringement of the ‘371 patent relating to the effect of selling the subject matter claimed by the ‘371 patent in promoting plaintiffs’ sales of other products not covered by the ‘371 patent, and the extent of such derivative or “convoyed” sales.
- 3. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants’ alleged infringement of the ‘371 patent relating to the established profitability of the subject matter claimed by the ‘371 patent, its commercial success, and its current popularity.
- 4. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants’ alleged infringement of the ‘371 patent relating to the utility and advantages of the subject matter claimed by the '371 patent over any old modes or devices that had been used including, but not limited to, any alleged utility or advantages over the structures shown in U.S. Patent No. 5,161,041 (Abileah) Fig. 6; U.S. Patent No. 4,298,249 (Gloor) Fig. 2; and IBM Technical Disclosure Bulletin, "High Efficiency Back Light for LCD," Feb. 1991.

5. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants' alleged infringement of the '371 patent relating to the utility and advantages of the subject matter claimed by the '371 patent over the structures disclosed but not claimed in the '371 patent having one lens array rotated slightly (i.e., '371 patent Fig. 12 and/or originally filed claim 9 from application no. 07/911,547).
6. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants' alleged infringement of the '371 patent relating to the nature of the subject matter claimed by the '371 patent, its character in the commercial embodiments owned and produced by Noticing Defendants, and the benefits to those who use or have used it.
7. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants' alleged infringement of the '371 patent relating to the extent to which Noticing Defendants used the subject matter claimed by the '371 patent and any evidence of the value of that use.
8. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants' alleged infringement of the '371 patent relating to the portion of the profit or selling price that is customary to allow for use of the subject matter claimed in '371 patent or analogous patents.

9. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to proving damages resulting from Noticing Defendants' alleged infringement of the '371 patent relating to the portion of the realizable profit from Noticing Defendants' sales of LCD Modules and/or LCD Products credited to the subject matter claimed by the '371 patent as distinguished from any non-patented elements, manufacturing processes, business risks or significant features or improvements added by Noticing Defendants.
10. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to determining the amount that plaintiffs and Noticing Defendants would have agreed upon, at the time Honeywell alleges that Noticing Defendants first began to infringe the '371 patent, if Honeywell and Noticing Defendants had reasonably and voluntarily tried to reach an agreement to license the '371 patent.
11. All facts plaintiffs contend are relevant to supporting or rebutting the royalty rate(s) plaintiffs purport to be entitled to from Noticing Defendants under the '371 patent.
12. All facts related to: the number of units of each accused product that plaintiffs allege are imported or contend on information and belief are imported into the United States; the number of units of each accused product that plaintiffs allege are sold worldwide and/or contend on information and belief are sold worldwide; identification of all countries worldwide in which units of each accused product are sold and the number of such units that plaintiffs allege are sold or contend on information and belief are sold in each such country; and the worldwide net sales of each such accused product and the relative percentage of sales of each such accused product that plaintiffs allege are imported and/or contend on information and belief are imported into the United States, and the bases for such relative percentage.

13. Any license agreements to which Honeywell is a party, or that are known to Honeywell, referring or relating to the '371 patent, LCD display technology, or lighting systems, devices, or processes used to illuminate LCD panels, and documents relating or referring thereto.
14. All facts related to the alleged share of the United States market held by any accused LCD Module, any Defendant, or any customer of any Defendant.
